Here We Go Again...

Students keep their tradition

Here we go again as Liberty students show their pride and spirit. Through tradition and individuality, Liberty high schoolers prove their love of being photographed. From teachers to students and sports to clubs, we're all individuals. When captured in the moment, you can see how some things never change, and some things get much better. One thing is for sure: we take the good with the bad, and it's always captured on camera.

Liberty's Most Memorable Faces

Wow! Do we really look like that?

Happy. Grumpy. Dopey. Bashful, Sneazy, Sleepy, and Doc.

Yes, they are the seven dwarfs in Snow White, but they're also the various facial expressions of the students here at Liberty High School. From gigantic grins to drop-dead tired, you never know what to expect. And since we at the Lion Yearbook Staff have caught these different looks, we thought we would honor them with a spread in the yearbook. Thus, the Expressions page was born.

So feast your eyes on our goofy faces, but watch out because you never know if you'll be the next one to be caught off guard.

Liberty Lions Love Lunchtime

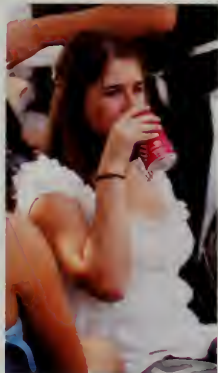

It's the highlight of the day

Liberty students always have one thing to look forward to: lunch! The Lions savour their time to socialize, take a break from school-work, and eat tons of food! Pizza seems to be a favorite among us high schoolers, but we also enjoy sandwiches, sodas, and salads. During these precious moments, we refuel our desire for learning and satisfy the growling of our stomachs.

without them, what would High School be?

With the hardships of high school, who do we turn to when we are down? Our friends help us everyday, and Liberty students do a good job of expressing friendships in many ways. Through all of the ups and downs in high school, friends comfort you and give advice while making memories at the same time. With hopes that all of these friendships will last a lifetime, high school friends will cherish the memories that they have made throughout the years. From freshman to seniors, here are our friends.

Spirited Students Spark Smiles

Important Events Come Alive

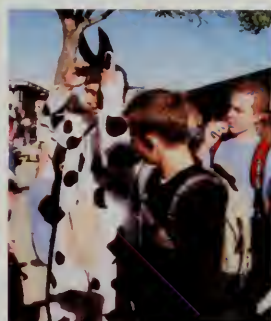

During high school, we change and mature each and every day. In this process, we sometimes forget the fun and excitement of our childhood. However, worries about finals, college applications, and SAT's fade away when we have a celebration. Whether it is Homecoming, Spirit Week, Patriotism Day or even Halloween, Liberty students display an amazing enthusiasm for our school and our childhood.

Left: Vanessa Ceja, Abby Davis and Kelly Knight have a retro 80s flashback; above: the award-winning choir performs in remembrance of September 11th; below: Tai Billingsley joins the others in an 80s remembrance.

Fun, Victorious, and Unforgettable

Another Happy Homecoming

It is that time of year when even the most anti-school spirited student don red and gold. When the "quad people" and "PAC people," teachers and students, and parents and their children are all united by LHS pride. It is a time that we know as Homecoming.

This year proved to be the best Homecoming yet. The Varsity football team crushed the Deer Valley Wolverines, while a tie in the annual Top Ten led to the creation of a Top Eleven. Representing the girls were Katie Baxley, Jackie Berridge, Nicole Bevers, Ashley Brown, Lindsey Dal Porto, Kristen Palma, Angela Polimeno, Jessica Rodgers, Ashley Sugimoto, and Victoria Zahn while Bryan Beaver, Jeff Bradford, Sean Corbett, Russell Koga, Corey Maciel, Jordan McNamee, Brian Pullen, Travis Schmollinger, Michael Smith, and Paul Stonebarger comprised the male population. Collin Seaman and Vanessa Ceja were crowned as Homecoming King and Queen. The parade was awesome, the dance was a blast, and once again Homecoming was a success.

...Collin Seaman and Vanessa Ceja!

Caught in the Act

Remembering Some of Those Moments You Just Want to Forget

Left: another student with a camera gives our photographer a taste of his own medicine; right: Britney Ashburn, you have a little something in your teeth; below: Tom Snyder creates a whole new meaning for getting a lift to class.

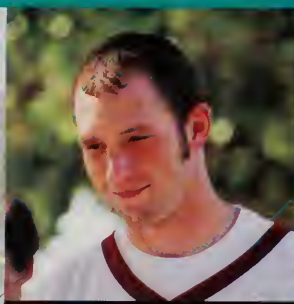

Right: Alex Pagan tries to not get caught talking on her illegal (when picture was taken) cell phone; above: you tell us, which is more obvious; below: the reason they told us not to lick the desks in kindergarten still rings true in high school, Bobby Allen.

Right: once again we catch our campus supervisors hard at work; above: watch out girls you could poke someone's eye out with activities like this; below: we weren't able to catch the culprit this year when someone burnt down our snack bar on the football field.

Dangerous Curves Ahead

SENIORS WAY

They have paid their dues. After three grueling years of standardized tests and mandatory classes, they finally made it to top dog status. Now it's their turn to get the perfect tan on the senior trip to Manteca Waterslides, wow their peers with unique Homecoming skits, and oh-so-much more. Most importantly, graduation and the future is rapidly approaching. Are you ready? We are!

CLASSES Blvd.

It's not easy being an underclassmen. After all they have to pass an insanely long exit exam, take all of the classes needed to get into college, and, in the case of a few unfortunate freshman, avoid being canned. Yet somehow they pull it off with smiles and fun. Their enthusiasm will help make their high school years the best yet.

When we started our junior year on that warm July day, we were faced with the rumor that this would be the hardest year. Along with that fact was the realization we were almost seniors. With this realization came new responsibility, maturity, and the upper class behavior expectation.

Junior year will seem like a minute when you look back on the long road of your high school years. From first loves, to final rehearsal of the Junior Skit, to putting final touches on our Homecoming Float "Roast the Wolverines", to final trauma before Junior Prom, the year seemed to be over before it had even begun.

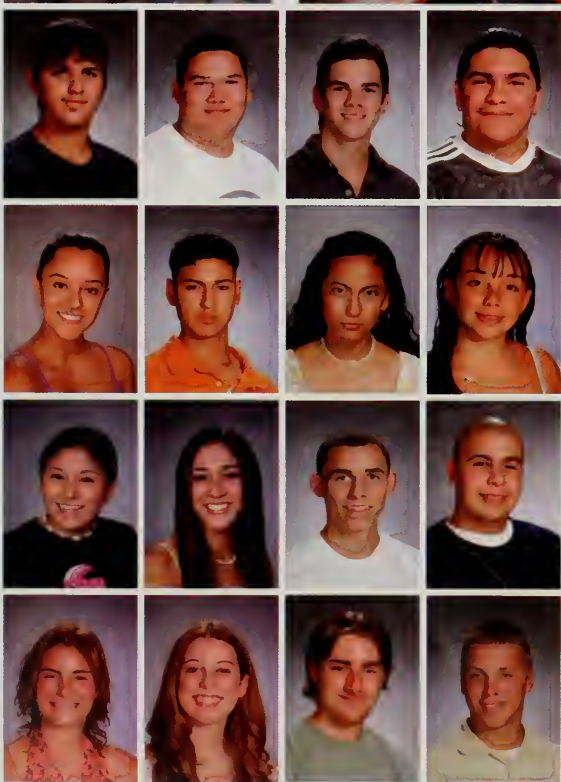

With the help from advisors: Mrs. Gina Kroner and Mrs. Sandy Overly, and class officers Chris Mullen, president; Athena Bernard, vice-president; Irma Mora, treasurer; and Ashley Dorrian, secretary; our junior year was the most successful one to date.

Hard Work Does Pay Off

Sophomores Win Annual Float Building

The Sophomore Class started the year out with a bang. Being lead by class advisers Mrs. Karen Tafoya and Mr. Jesse Ortega and class officers Bobby Rudd, president; Sam Potter, vice-president; Danielle Kieckhefer, treasurer; and Kelsey Brown, secretary, the Class of 2005 sponsored the Soph Hop in the spring. They also built their own float with the great theme "Dine on Deer Valley" which was the winning float. Sophomores raised money for their future years at Liberty by selling class T-shirts and having a local car wash.

The Class of 2005 advisors would like to give a little advice. "To live for results would be to sentence myself to continuous frustration, my only sure reward is in my actions and not from them."-Mr. Ortega "Class of 2005 is a great, great, great class."- Mrs. Tafoya

Their first Homecoming

Here they are, the Class of '06. Leading the pack is Hayley Huchton, president; Alicia Fonseca, vice president; Lauren Groseclose, secretary; and Lisa Freitas, treasurer. The class advisors are math teacher Matt Wilgenbush and Health/Sports Medicine teacher Jennifer Castro.

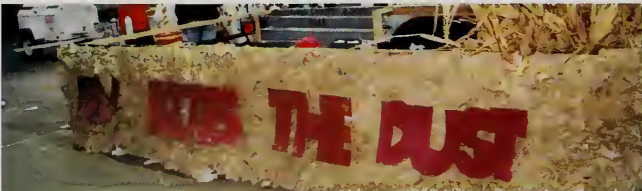

As the fourth in line of the four floats, the Freshman displayed a wolverine being eaten by a lion. Their slogan was "DV Bites the Dust." The Freshman Class is off to a super start and we'll be sure to see other great stuff from the Class of 2006 in the future.

Above: Emily Bryan and Joseph Sisneros spray paint a side of the float that they will later add to; left: "DV Bites The Dust" was the float's motto.

ACTIVITIES

Activities, activities, activities. What else can we say! Liberty is the school that is full of activities and excitement throughout the year! From great plays to choir and band concerts and dances and Homecoming, students put forth their best efforts in every activity

AHA Academy Celebrates

With Liberty's Renaissance Faire

With the help of AHA Representatives, Mrs. Hillary Pedrotti and Mrs. Lorraine Anderson, this year's Liberty Renaissance Faire was sure to be a hit. Returning every other year, The Renaissance Faire was a celebration of the Arts and Humanities Academy and a chance for students to experience a day in the life of Renaissance times.

It was a day of observing royalty of the "queen" otherwise known as Mrs. Helen Dixon; participating in sword fights, and playing games. The choir sang during different periods of the day, and our Liberty playmakers entertained us with multiple performances. Dressed in creative attire, the AHA students had a wonderful time at the Liberty Renaissance Fair.

Shocking News!

Inside Scoop on Julius Caesar's Tragic Death

From light to sound to outstanding costumes, the fall play, Julius Caesar was the highlight of the first semester.

With Collin Seaman as Brutus, Sean Hamlin as Julius Caesar, Meghan Wren as Antonia, and Mary Ann Hernandez as Cassius the play turned out to be amazing.

Full of betrayal and back-stabbing, Julius Caesar learns who he can trust ... only about a minute too late. The fighting scenes were action-packed and very intense.

The actors really made the story come to life for their audience.

Pirates Portrays Professional Performers

Talented Actors, Singers and Musicians Show Liberty's Best

Gilbert and Sullivan's musical, "The Pirates of Penzance," was executed with skill and professional talent by Playmakers and the Liberty pit crew. Also called the "Slave of Duty," this piece depicted a young man Frederic who was mistakenly apprenticed to a crew of fierce but soft-hearted, goofy pirates by his nursemaid, Ruth, Mary Ann Hernandez. At the pivotal age of twenty-one, Frederic, played by an eager Eric Rosado, left the swashbucklers in search of an honest life; determined to return to prosecute his former comrades. However, the grief-stricken pirates, led by Pirate King, charming Collin Seaman, had another plan in mind.

Once Frederic landed on the shore, he met the gaggle of gorgeous, (and scantily clad) Stanley girls. He quickly fell madly in love with the magnificent Mabel, played by the spectacular Serena Standley. However, he is followed by the king and Ruth, determined to regain the love of their old friend and bring the girls' as wives for the lecherous crew. They confronted Frederic and the girls' proud father, distinguished Major-General Stanley. In response, Frederic allied with the Major-General and the valiant Sergeant of the Constables, Jorge Sidhu to try and conquer the scoundrels. Then, things go to pieces, the Pirate King and Ruth confidently emerge with a leap-year fiasco. Frederic is bound to the crew for sixty additional years. The devoted Mabel pledges to patiently wait for her true love. However, in the end the pirates, constables and the Stanley clan resolve their differences, joining together in song for the finale.

The audience sat in awe of the amazing production. It was led by Mrs. Helen Dixon and the music was directed by Mrs. Susan Stuart. The tech crew created dazzling special effects and the acting was amplified by the costumes and hair designs. This production portrayed the talent that lives and breathes within our walls.

Liberty Named Best Marching Band

At Christmas Parade

Liberty's Band and Color Guard had a wonderful 2002-2003 year, which included many different festivals, concerts, parades, awards, and visits to college campuses.

Instructed by Mr. Tom Ruscica (new to the band this year), the marching band participated in the annual Homecoming Parade with their fantastic skills and spirit. They visited a few college campuses, including Cal. The band also took home the Best Marching Band award at the Christmas Parade in November.

The concerts included the winter concert and the spring concert and performances by the Jazz Band as well.

Choir Celebrates A Steller Year

With Summer Trip to Washington D.C.

Liberty High Schools Concert and Chamber Choirs were given an honor of a life-time when they were invited to perform in the National Festival of the States 2003, in Washington D.C. The tour is hosted by Anthony Williams, the Washington D.C. mayor, and the Mount Veron Ladies Association. This invitation is a huge privilege because each choir performing had to be nominated or undergo a rigorous audition, and only a couple choirs are picked to represent each state. While on the tour, the choir will enjoy sight-seeing and performing in Washington D.C.

In the light of the invitation, 80 Volts was brought to life. It was going to take $80,000 to send the choir to Washington. 80 Volts worked hard hosting crab feeds and car washes to earn the money, in the end, each student only had to pay one hundred dollars for the entire trip.

Serena Standley was this years winner of the Jenny Lind Award, the top senior award given by the choral department. The other top four finalists were Brandon Beckstrand, Glen Greer, Ashleyanne Krigbaum, and Eric Rosado.

Collin Seaman Has the Midas Touch

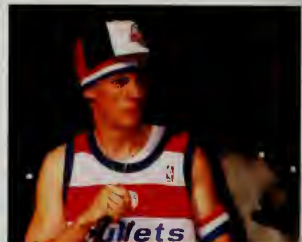

Another Crown to Add to the Pile

On April 4, 2003, 14 of Liberty's finest guys competed for the title of this year's Mr. Liberty and raise money for the Student Emergency Relief Fund. Mikey Amaro, David Berumen, Jeff Bradford, Andrew Ghilarducci, James Greene, David Koch, Corey Maciel, Ross Matteson, Ryan Olff, Tony Prochaska, Collin Seaman, Glen Semino, Mikey Smith, and Jeffery Sugimoto all strutted their stuff on the stage. Awards for the evening included the Kevin Carpenter award, received by David Berumen, People's Choice given to Jeffery Sugimoto, while Corey Maciel took home the Formal Wear and Talent awards, and Best Interview was given to Collin Seaman. In a close contest Mikey Smith captured second runner-up, Corey Maciel was named first runner-up, and Collin Seaman was crowned our 2003 Mr. Liberty.

Rodriguez Leads

Students Follow

Under the direction of first-year student leadership advisor, Ms. Summer Rodriguez, the student leadership took on a whole new look. The group started off the year with a patriotic tribute to 9/11.

Student body officers Ashley Sugimoto, president; Renae Dudek, vice-president; Andrea Chapa, secretary; and Ashley Brown, treasurer; helped the commissioners and class officers plan and execute a memorable Homecoming in late October.

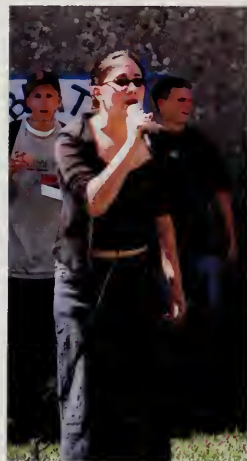

Adding Teacher's Buddies showed a new commitment to honoring and acknowledging the many jobs teachers do for students.

Fundraising made the introduction of Liberty Idol, to establish a trust for a staff member's children; the continuance of Mr. Liberty; raised money for the SERF account; car washes and assisting at the Lions Club Crab Feed helped pay for the numerous activities, events and needs of an every-growing student body.

In December, the students collected hundreds of new toys to provide a bright Christmas for needy children.

Rallies this year included the male cheerleaders, pie eating and a water pistol attack of staff members on the crowd of students.

Welcome to the Lion Yearbook Staff

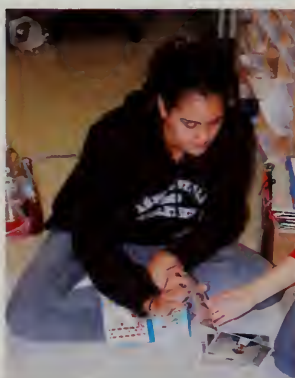

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times. We had tons of laughs, we were stressed out about deadlines. It was a year like every other and a year unique unto itself.

The Lion Yearbook Staff was led by co-editors-in-chief Genie Bettencourt and Coree Brown, editor Sarah Dacey, assistant editor Amy Cooley, and photo editor Lauren Whalley. After a "bonding" trip over the summer, the girls entered the new year with unparalleled enthusiasm. Their first challenge was to come up with an appropriate theme for the 74th yearbook under the guidance of their distinguished advisor, Mr. William Batze. "Here we go again" was decided upon for its value as starting a new page after the school's centennial. With the induction of a new staff, the yearbookers spent many hours working on what would be a tribute to our memories, building friendships, and having fun.

Membership Grows in "Earth" Club

More Members Swell Ranks

From a name change to Latino Unidas and huge growth for one organization, our Liberty clubs enjoyed an exciting year of activities.

Azteca Club underwent a name change to become Latino Unidas or United Latins. The officers and advisers wanted a name that would more readily identify who they were and how they wanted to be identified.

Liberty for Earth enjoyed a huge jump in membership from three last year to over 20 this year. The club also gained a new adviser in Julie Hubbard.

The NHS group took several field trips; one to an animal shelter and others to preschools. During the winter months, they sponsored a coat drive that netted over 200 garments for needy people.

On Good Friday, the CSF club hosted an Easter egg hunt for the children of Brentwood. The hunt was held at the city park on Second Street.

Varsity Football Wins Homecoming

second year beating Deer Valley

This years Varsity Football team, with the help of captains Bryan Beaver, Russell Koga, and Brian Pullen, had a pretty rough, but exciting year. With a slow start, the Lions won their Homecoming Game 43-28 against Deer Valley.

In the battle for the bell, the Falcons kept it with a close score of 21-13. One Liberty team member, Michael Smith, made BVAL, first team all league. Coming out of a pretty good season, Liberty has high aspirations for next year's team.

Best Season Ever for Girls

Dal Porto and Baxley lead the Way

"This was my best season ever," remarked girls' Varsity water polo coach Rebecca St. Michel.

With MVP Lindsey Dal Porto and Katie Baxley leading the way, the girls enjoyed their league home matches at the Brentwood Water Park.

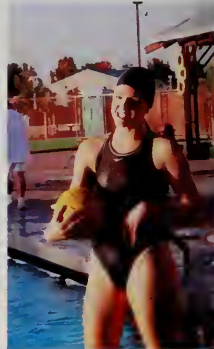

Marcy Strle earned the coaches most improved award while Emily Berz, Lindsey Dal Porto, and Jessica Rodgers were chosen as the teams captains.

Rolling Along...

Boys Varsity Soccer shifts into a new gear

The odds were against the Boys Varsity Soccer Team this year, as they struggled to find success. Led by team captains Andre Ourthiague, Jimmy Estenson, and MVP Ramon Martinez, the boys worked to find their own path after losing many key players last year. Although their victories were not overwhelming, they still managed to make a significant impact, culminating in the fact that Ramon was named first-team all-league and Yaffit Rodriguez was named second-team all-league. We're proud of their effort. Go Lions!

Varsity Wrestlers

Complete a Winning Season

Applause should be given to the 2002-2003 Liberty wrestlers. Wrestling has always been one of Liberty's best sports, and this season proved this true. The boys dominated on the mat by taking first place at North Coast Section as well as capturing the league title. Two of Liberty's most experienced matmen, Travis Williams and Jimmy Vukelich, earned their way to the state meet in Stockton.

Young Team Plays Competitive Ball

Frosh, Soph Learn at Varsity Level

Working with a young group of girls (3 freshmen and 6 sophomores) the Varsity team had a great preseason. After starting the league play with three close contests, the Lady Lions struggled but played competitively in all games. They took top-ranking Freedom Falcons to extra innings before falling by a single run. Coach Rich Barrios worked extra hard with the girls through long practices and Saturday drills.

Water Lions Swim to Success

At BVAL Competition

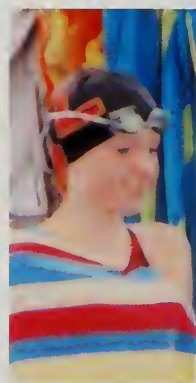

Both boys' and girls' varsity swimming teams clawed their way to a third place finish in the BVAL Competition. Kate Wilson and Clementine Nguyen earned births to the North Coast Competition.

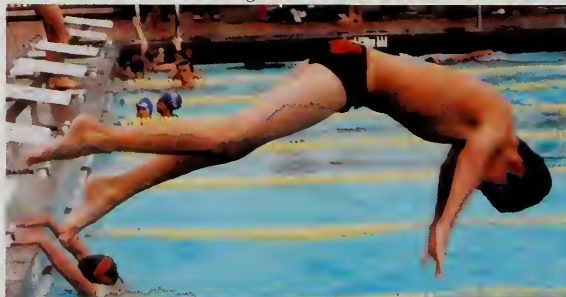

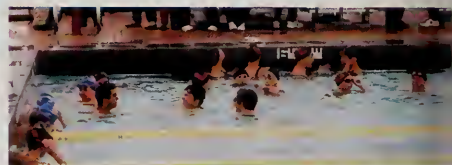

Led by MVP Ashley Clare, the JV team captured second place overall in dual meet with a 5-1 record.

Coach Katrina Wellington helped a contingent of divers qualify for North Coast.

JV swimmers Shannon Kady, Trista Townsend, and Clementine Nguyen were named most improved. The JV team also took pride in beating Freedom's team this year.

Track Team Sends Best

Members Head off to North Coast

Despite a long winter and many rainy days, the track team performed to the best of their ability this season. The large team was guided by Coaches Peter Foster, John and Nicole Ambrose, Bill Cook and Assistant Nina Ingleman.

Kulling Qualifies for NCS

Grabs MVP Trophy Too

Powered by the fine play of Kyle Kulling, MVP award winner, and Bryan Beaver, Captain Award, the 2003 Lion Varsity Team scored an 8-6 league record.

Top golfer Kyle was able to qualify for the NCS Tournament of Champions with a 78 and 12th place finish in the League Tourney.

Brian Beaver was constantly the number 2 player while the other 3 starters were all freshmen-Garrett Baxley, Todd Herst, and Bryce McCutcheon. Seniors Mike Amores and Eric Baldwin contributed throughout the season according to Coach Curtis Cunningham.

Bumping To Success

Webber Leads

The boys Varsity volleyball team swept their competition this year. At NCS, the team won their way to the second round by beating Amador Valley High School but losing to Miramonte. Matt Webber led the team through phenomenal playing and ability. Throughout the year, the volleyball team was able to slam their opponents defeating schools such as our rival Freedom High School.

Varsity Team Travels to Nationals

Squad Enjoys Trek to Anaheim

Practice, practice, practice! Daily practice, vacation practice, and summer practices paid off for the Varsity Cheerleaders as they earned their second consecutive trip to the national finals in Anaheim in March.

Besides their local and regional competition, the girls spend countless hours working on routines for both football and basketball games as well as sports' rallies.

Moving into a larger, better-lighted, and user friendly gym delighted the squad as they were able to cheer at either end of the floor in comfort and safety.

The girls are lead by staff members- Mrs. Missy Beaver, Ms. Summer Rodriguez, and Ms. Jennifer Watson.

In the 2002-2003 school year, Liberty has seen many new additions. The new gym was opened finally in November. Sara Fuhter joined the counseling staff to substitute for Mary Halter while she is on a one year leave of absence. Brian Call joined the staff as a math teacher. Larry Enos, Sandra Nix, and Gary Pettit are all new special education teachers. Andrew King now teaches Spanish as a new staff member. Christan King runs the Odyssey program. Tanya Smith started teaching English at Liberty. Katrina Wellington teaches math.

Our teacher of the year was Susan MacDonald. Summer Rodriguez served as this year's Grand Marshall in the Homecoming Parade along with Hoyle Beasley.

Dear Amber,
I can't believe it's time for you to graduate. Soon I won't have to worry about you stealing my clothes anymore! From your partner in crime with our double dare slides, to your protector carrying you across the playground, to your friend talking and laughing, I couldn't have picked a better little sister to grow up with. No matter how far away we end up we'll always have Christmas eves and shopping and love will keep us close. Congratulations on graduating, I know you'll make a wonderful teacher! Princess and Angel Forever! I love You

Amber Nicole Perriera

Nov. 7th, 1984 God gave us a tiny little angel to hold. At just 5lbs12 oz. you were the most precious little angel to be found. From an adorable baby to a beautiful young woman we have watched every second in amazement as you have grown from a shy little girl to an outgoing, strong, confident young woman. From your first tiny little steps on your toes we should have known you would dance your way through life. Now as you graduate and set off to explore the world and all of life's possibilities remember to dance to your own music and know that home is never more than a leap away. We are so proud of you, thank you for being our little angel! Love, Mom and Dad

A daughter is a wonderful blessing,
A treasure from above.
She's laughter, warmth and special charm,
She's thoughtfulness and love.
A daughter brings a special joy,
That comes from deep inside.
And as she grows to adulthood,
She fills your heart with pride.
With every year that passes,
She's more special than before.
Through every stage, through every age,
You love her even more.
No words can describe the warm memories,
The pride and gratitude too.
That comes from having a daughter,

Our Future Is So Bright

We Have to Wear Shades

After cramming for the SAT's, working hard and anxiously stalking the mailman throughout April, we finally have hard evidence of our success. College acceptance letters arrived, academic all-stars were recognized and scholarships were doled out to dilligent students. We've done well and have gotten into some amazing schools. Whether you are off to the military, trade school, junior college or university, this page is dedicated to our success.

Ashley Crowned Princess

Spring activities include the main dances of the year; and that meant the Sophomore Hop for the Class of 2005. Candidates for the Princess and Prince were Sara Ceja, Whitney Fraga, Jenna Miller, Rachel Lanpher, Ashley Brown, Brandon Bautista, Jack Bell, David Ochoa, Jack Baldwin and Bobby Rudd.

Turning the school cafeteria into a night club with an allusion to the club in the Roxbury movie, the class was eager to crown the Princess Ashley Brown. The sophomores danced to current CDs that filled the night with fun.

Since freshmen year, we've wondered and dreamed about our Senior Ball, the most exciting event of our whirlwind senior year. Themed the "End of the Road," we boarded the beautiful San Francisco Belle for the night of our lives. As we cruised through the bay we enjoyed sights of the Golden Gate, mingled with friends, played cards and of course danced. After getting of the ship, we returned home with wonderful memories of our Senior Ball.

Seniors. . . The Class of 2003

Farewell Message

First days, presentations, ESLRS, SSR, overdue book fees, and dance preparation. As we reflect on the past four years at Liberty most seniors can say, "Been there, won't miss that!" On the flip side, there are many memories that the Class of 2003 will cherish forever.

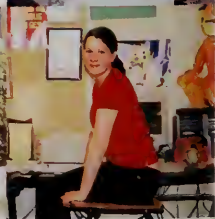

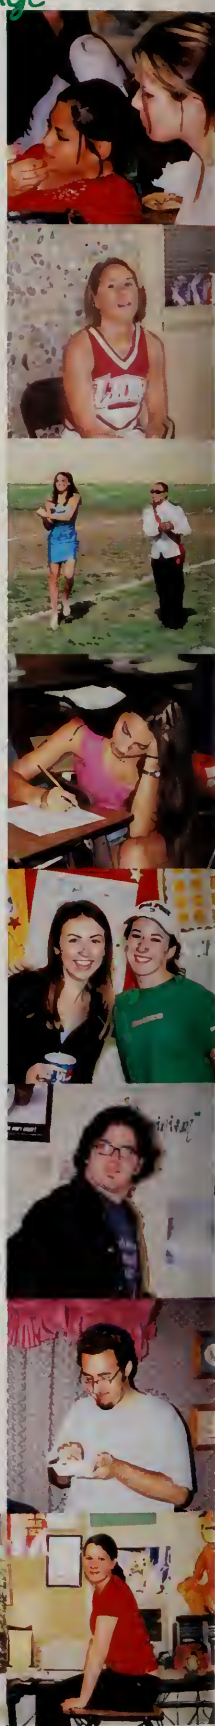

The month was August, the year was 1999 when hundreds of youngsters filtered into Liberty High School from surrounding middle schools and beyond. We were lead through our first Homecoming with the theme, "Cream the Warriors." Though we didn't take first place it was only the beginning and the experience prepared us for victory in the years to come. Under the guidance of class advisors Mrs. Julie Somerhalder and Mrs. Christine Zahn, we conquered our freshmen year. This couldn't have been accomplished however without Stacey DeBernardi, class president; Ashley Sugimoto, vice-president; Ashley Brown, treasurer; and Tami Sposito, secretary.

With our first year under our belts, the second turned out to be a breeze. The same class officers moved us into our sophomore year with great ease. Mrs. Valerie Stillwell and Mrs. Zahn helped the Class of 2003 take home first place during Homecoming with the float theme, "Grab a Tray, it's a Wildcat Buffet." Nicole Bevers and Russell Koga took home the crowns as the rest of us danced the night away at our Soph Hop.

Junior year was a whole new ball game. We worked hard and played even harder. Our class officers Ashley Sugimoto, president; Ashley Brown, vice-president; Andrea Chapa, treasurer; and Vanessa Ceja, secretary; helped guide our hard work with the float, "Who's the King of the Jungle". Along side the class officers were the advisors, Mrs. Stillwell and Mrs. Zahn. Our Junior Prom was a beautiful success at the Marriott in San Ramon where our song and theme of the dance was appropriately, "I Could Not Ask for More."

Finally the Class of 2003 approached our senior year ready to graduate. We scrambled to prepare for senior events and finally began to see the fruits of our labor. Our class officers Jessica Rodgers, president; Willow Cameron, vice-president; Carissa Anderson, treasurer; Katie Baxley, secretary; planned the events we had awaited for the preceding three years. Mrs. Christina Morales joined Mrs Zahn to advise us through our final year. Our float for Homecoming, "In Your Dreams Wolverines" didn't necessarily take home first place but it did bring our class together for a common effort one last time. Our Senior Ball was just that, a ball! We cruised the San Francisco Bay and danced our feet off on the San Francisco Belle. As the night drew to an end we heard our song that seemed to sum up senior year well, "The End of the Road." With Graduation, the Class of 2003 went their separate ways; never to be fully together again even at reunions.

Though much of our four years were filled with requirements and other hassles, we will never forget the Liberty pride the Class of 2003 has now and will have for years to come.

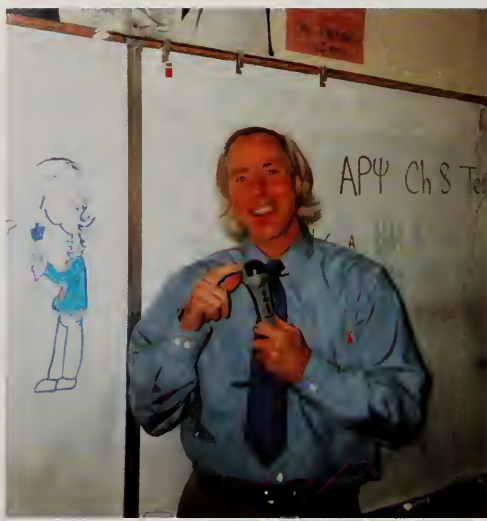

James,
As your high school experience comes to an end, we reflect on who you were as you began, and who you are now. Even though it has only been four years, this period has been one of much growth. You have developed into an amazing young man. You have grown from each challenge you've faced. You've learned that even when things do not go as you thought they would, you still have the power to succeed. You've learned how to express yourself, because you've realized that what you think does matter. The growth you've made will take you a long way on the rest of your journey. Never allow anyone to influence you to do less than you know you can.

We've watched you grow and have been given more opportunities to be proud than we ever could have imagined. We are so grateful for you, and the blessings you bring to our lives. Go forward with confidence. Always do your best and settle for nothing less!

Much love and admiration,
Your Family, Dad, Mom, Jayson, Amanda, and Jeffrey

Here Is Where It Stops for Me

Advisor's Farewell Message

Little did I know 35 years ago when I agreed to become the new yearbook advisor that I would be doing the annual from 1968 to 2003; 35 books and a bunch of memories.

My first staff had been well-trained by Mr. William Peters and I went with his advice naming Judy (Scarfo) Barton as my first editor and Cynthia Wilson as assistant editor. For our first book, we chose a popular song as our theme and were off on our odyssey. We discovered that we needed written permission to use the lyrics from 'Born Free' and the only person in the world who could give us that was up the Amazon River on vacation. We actually took a chance and went to press without permission and held our collective breath until it came to us before the book was distributed. We featured a simple, golden lion on the yearbook background for our cover and number one was done. Our proof corrections raised the book cost by 15% so we learned to correct it before it went to the publisher. We produced all the layouts on special 3-R forms with carbon copies and every single, individual, undergraduate mug-shot had to be laboriously drawn on by hand. Our equipment consisted of a couple of Royal typewriters (manual), a double-lens camera and an old SLR camera as well. We had a darkroom at the end of D Street but water so hard it left spots on everything. The cost of the book was $4 for students and staff while the production bill was nearly $5,000 (this year's book cost $40 and production is $51,000). We made 60% of the book cost from sale of it and the remainder from commercial ads (this year, 90% of the book cost comes from the sale of it and the remainder from senior ads). We had to go out many afternoons and Saturdays to sell commercial ads. We had a period for yearbook (period 7 so we could work straight through if needed) but still needed workdays to finish up our deadlines. We were a spring delivery book and had to have our yearbook deadline to the company in November (January now) and our last pages had to be shipped around the first of April. I took my yearbook staff everywhere to work on it and found myself doing the date pages while waiting in the emergency room at Kaiser Walnut Creek. The book came out on time and was distributed at the last final (Period 7). That was always a fun activity as 400 students all wanted their book at the same time. The students spent the next two hours reading and signing the book before the buses took them home. We had done it and #1 was now history.

As I look over the next 34 books and staffs I see a preponderance of girls on staff with a boy here and there for variety. Only three boys have been editors-in-chiefs and only five total have ever been on editorial board. We switched to 0 period to allow students more room in their schedule and when yearbook was lost as a class, we became an extra-curricular activity; Prop 13 had claimed another victim.

It always seemed that the busiest students were the ones who joined staff. One year the staff decided to buy T-shirts and we had "Batze's Bookies" on the back with their name and a lion on the other. Our commercial ads section grew as the community and school population grew and reached a point where they were 25% of the book and paid over 50% of the total cost of production. Every year our professional photographer would show up on a school day and pick up six students to take pictures at those places who had ordered a picture ad. The kids loved doing it and were always treated to a nice lunch. That came to a halt when the liability became a negative so the advisor had to take the time to do the pictures. We struggled to raise the number of books we sold and were never really successful until the Walk-Thru was initiated. Walk-Thru is the best thing that ever happened to the yearbook at Liberty as we were finally able to get student, parent, and merchant all together in the same room to order a book.

At some point we eliminated the "Organizations" section of the yearbook as we had discovered that most students joined the various clubs and paid their dues simply to get another picture in the yearbook. We had to spend one entire school day taking kids out of classes to get the organization pictures done. It was really fun trying to get the 300 plus members of the Pep Club identified.

Sports' coverage has shown the most remarkable transition over the years. Varsity football has always been the predominant sport and enjoyed a large section in sports. Girls' sports were limited to GAA and two pages. Today, most Varsity sports have the same coverage and with the addition of more and more sports' teams, the Sports' Section has become the book's largest with girls' sports being treated the same as the boys.

Color has undergone one of the largest revolutions in the yearbook industry. Our earlier books had only a few opening pages in 4-Color because of the high expense of separating the pictures into their different colors. Pictures had to be done to the exact size they were to be reproduced as the companies charged a small fortune to enlarge or reduce them. Next to be added in color was the senior section in 1984 but the costs were so high it was discontinued for a couple of years. Finally, with the introduction of million-dollar laser scanners, costs began to come down. With today's technology, color is very affordable and Liberty saw its first all-color yearbook last year. Publishers had invested in multi-million dollar presses to get to this point in the publishing industry.

We started with a little company called American Yearbook Company who had a publishing plant below Fresno. They were absorbed by Jostens, the big people, and became Jostens' American Yearbook Company. We stayed with through the 1982 yearbook, the worst book of my career. We moved our account to Hunter from Winston-Salem on the east coast and stayed just four years. Because their plant rep hated and feared computers, we eagerly embraced Taylor who had a user-friendly computer system that was awesome at the time. Since 1986, we have been with Taylor except for a single year. We now use Adobe Pagemaker and have continually upgraded our computers since we purchased our first ones back in the green-screen era.

I can remember the year we tried so hard to get a single leaf on one opening page in green while the rest of the page was in black and white. One of our plainest covers (86) was our best loved and few "extra" books exist from that year. One year we learned how to "tip-on" a color picture onto the cover and we did it all of them right side up. In '95 the staff decided on an overnight work day and did not want me there to assist. We have gone to San Francisco, Vallejo, Santa Cruz and Visalia on yearbook trips. We drove down through the valley in 100+ temperatures with the students in the back of my pickup camper showing signs to pass motorists that read "Help! We are being kidnapped" and we were lucky not to be seen by any law enforcement people. The girls got to ride home in A/C comfort while the only boy on staff stuck it out with me in the pickup. I remember the yellow cover that was so ugly, that nobody on staff could say anything positive about it; and how hard that young lady worked on it to get it just right. I can still see the "couple" we made walk through a barley field so we could get a closing picture for the yearbook; we were lucky to have a boy on staff that year to use in the picture. I have had the top students in school as part of the staff; I even had Homecoming Queen on staff one year. Former staff members have come back as teachers or staff members and include Mrs. Sharon Johnson, Mrs. J. Somerhalder, Ms. Summer Rodriguez, and Dr. Rose Borunda. I can still see the staff rushing outside to catch snow on their tongues in one of our infrequent snow storms in Brentwood. I remember the year that the staff split on the cover idea and would not compromise so we had to throw out two good ideas and start from scratch. I remember the young freshman girl who hated to talk on the phone and was asked to answer all the calls for four years (she made editor her senior year) and remember the yearbook rep that did not believe me about being on time and almost got arrested for trying to catch up with me on our trip to Visalia. I remember the parent who said that they never worried about dropping their daughters off at school at 7 or 8 or 9 because they knew I was there at least 20 minutes before the time I told the kids to be at school. I remember having my appendix taken out the week the yearbooks were scheduled to arrive and listening to my yearbook rep explain why the books were late; I was talking to him from my hospital bed. I remember girls that were so painfully shy who came out of their shells to become outgoing, positive people by being "forced" to go on ads sales. I remember making my students always go in pairs on ad sales so no one could say they had given or done something that was not in fact. I always tried to pair up new members with old; talkers with the quiet ones; and super sellers with staffers who did not want to do it at all. I remember taking a group of students to Antioch where one of them, a boy, bought a live mouse that he ended up convincing a young woman that she needed it for her daughter and sold it to her (we used it in an ad picture too). I remember going to yearbook conferences and learning new skills or sending staffers to them for more information. The wealth of memories that I take away from this position can never be measured in dollars or by any other method; these are things I will treasure always. Every yearbook has a story to tell-the ones the people who buy it discover and a totally different one for those who put it together. We worked hard, we had fun, we learned new things. It was not always easy but it was always fun.

It has been a fantastic trip and I will miss being advisor to a great school and yearbook. I want to thank the hundreds of yearbook staffers who stuck with me through the good times and the down times. I want to thank the countless editors and photo editors who helped me so much (I always told them that I was an "advisor" not a dictator) and had the courage to stand up for their beliefs. I want to thank the teachers, secretaries, custodians, cafeteria and transportation personnel, administrators, and all the school personnel for their patience, understanding, and cooperation. I want to thank the myriad of yearbook representatives for putting up with my often times, weird requests. Most of all I want to thank my wife for being so understanding and non-complaining about the long hours and lost Saturdays and for healing me when I hurt. Thanks to all of you for a memorable ride; it was great fun while it lasted!

Class of 2003 Enjoys Graduation

June 6 Ceremony Closes out High School Careers

June 6, 2003, will remain a date that over 400 seniors will always remember; not that of the invasion of Normandy during WWII but rather the day they sadly bid farewell to Liberty High School and embarked on the next adventure in their lives.

On a cool, windy evening, the shouts and bronx cheers filled the air as the Class of 2003 left the S and P Wing classrooms (homerooms for Graduation) for the final time. Led by class advisors, Mrs. Christina Morales and Mrs. Christina Zahn, the seniors filed out of the rooms in rows of two to march onto Ohmstede Field for the festive ceremony.

To the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" by the Liberty Band, the seniors took their seats before a standing-room only crowd. After introductions and opening remarks by both Principal Dan Ocheltree and Superintendent Dan Smith, Richalyn 'Nicole Abbate gave a short but powerful speech as the student speaker. Her remarks were followed by the comments from the Class of '03 valedictorian, Victoria Zahn; and salutatorians, Genia Bettencourt, Ross Matteson, and Meghan Wren. The class gift was presented by Jessica Rodgers, president; who was followed by an outstanding vocal by Serena Standley, Jenny Lind Award Winner.

Principal Ocheltree presented the graduates to the Governing Board of Trustees and acknowledged that all had met the requirements for a diploma. After acceptance by the Board, the 400+ seniors marched up one-by-one to have their names announced by their class advisors to the audience who responded with cheers, shouts, and the blasts of air horns.

Student Body President, Ashley Sugimoto, made a few closing remarks, tassels were moved from one side to the other, and Graduation for the Class of 2003 was finished. Parents, siblings, and friends rushed the field to extend congratulations as the seniors struggled to the north end of the field to pick up that most cherished of documents--their diploma.
